S.O.A.R. welcomes high school seniors, future UTM students

During the past few years, UTM's enrollment has been growing steadily, with more than 6,100 students enrolled last fall.

Judy Rayburn, Director of Admissions, said that 1,800 students already enrolled for the summer and fall 2005 semesters. The preliminary count suggests that UTM again could break an enrollment record.

The jump may also be linked to an influx in transfer students. Admissions reports 379 transfer students coming to UTM for the summer and fall semesters.

Rayburn said that the number of applicants has been up for the past two years. "We are optimistic that we will see another large upcoming freshman class," said Rayburn. "We are really excited about the next school year."

Also coming up this summer is the Summer Orientation and Registration, better know as S.O.A.R. The first S.O.A.R. session that happened this weekend was filled to capacity, and the admissions office looks for the other two S.O.A.R. sessions to fill up quickly.

Although the average GPA will not be calculated until the fall semester, the incoming students' average ACT score is 21.6 on a scale of 36.

Rayburn said, "We hope to continue to grow gradually, but we also want to be selective in admitting students that can graduate from UTM and be very successful."

Sigma Alpha forms interest group at UTM

Professional sorority offers opportunities for women in agriculture

Samantha Young
News Editor

The Office of Student Life announced the formation of several new student organizations this week, among these a group of women aspiring to become a chapter of Sigma Alpha.

Sigma Alpha is a national professional agriculture sorority with 60 chapters and more than 4,000 initiated members. According to Sigma Alpha's national Web site, the organization was formed at Ohio State University in 1978 as "an alternative to the social Greek sorority system."

"I always wanted to start an agriculture sorority on campus," group president Pamela Bartholomew, a senior Agriculture Education major from Decaturville, said.

Bartholomew said the impetus to start such a sorority came when the UTM chapter of Collegiate FFA attended the national FFA convention last fall. Sigma Alpha had a booth at the convention.

"We just started talking, and by this time last semester we had a letter back from [the national sorority]," Bartholomew said.

The group is currently considered a Sorority in Development chapter. While it is not and will not be a member of the Panhellenic Council, it will be participating in Sigma Alpha does not allow dual membership in the organization and in a Panhellenic sorority.

Student charged with DUI, damaging three cars

Moore

UTM student Miles Moore, 19, of Bells, Tenn., was arrested Friday night on charges of driving under the influence, underage drinking, causing damage to three vehicles and leaving the scene of an accident.

According to reports from the Martin Police Department, Officer Larry Baker was driving in the parking lot of Martin Place Apartments when he heard a loud crash near the 700 building of Martin Place. Baker also heard a vehicle coming in his direction that was observed to be a gray Chevrolet pickup that was dragging something underneath it.

When Baker approached the driver, Moore, he detected an alcoholic odor about Moore's person. Moore admitted that he had been drinking.

Martin Police's investigation revealed that Moore was driving in the parking lot when he struck two parked vehicles. One of the vehicles that was hit was knocked into a third vehicle. Moore then left the scene of the accident.

The vehicles that were hit included a 1986 Cutlass, a 1995 Camaro and a 1992-year vehicle. The make and model of the last vehicle was not listed on the police report. In total, damages were estimated to be at least $8,500.

Moore was given three sobriety tests that led officers to arrest Moore on charges of driving under the influence. He was also charged with leaving the scene of an accident, underage drinking and violation of the implied consent law. Moore was issued the last charge when he refused to submit to a breathalyzer test.

Moore was arraigned in Weakley County General Sessions Court on Monday. A preliminary court date has been set for May 18. He posted a bond amount of $1,500 on the same day that he was jailed at the Weakley County Detention Center.

According to the athletics Web site, <http://www.utmsports.com>, Moore is also a reserve pitcher for the UTM Skyhawks baseball team.

Life beyond college begins soon

For the seniors at UTM, the real world is getting all too close.

Portfolios, job searches, resumes, applications, and interviews are becoming very familiar. Combined with the normal rigors of a semester ending, planning a graduation, and oh yes, a social life is supposed to fit in there somewhere, it's no wonder we don't find seniors passed out all over campus, just from the sheer stress of it all.

To top it off, although the economy is slowly improving, it's probably not the easiest time to find a job in the field you love. Don't give up hope though.

There are jobs out there. The trick is in knowing how to find them. Networking is going to be one of the best ways to find a job. Hopefully in your time at UTM you've gotten to know people, both on campus and off, and have been working to get your name out there. Networking is a simple thing, but overlooked by students far too often, until reality hits them in the face. Finding a job is all about getting a foot in the door, no matter where that door may be.

Elaine Wilson
Staff Columnist

Many students can't wait to move on and see the world, but many more limit themselves when they refuse to look beyond their own back door. Leave yourself open to all the possibilities out there, and once you've gotten your foot in the door and some experience under your belt, then you can look to moving to a part of the country or world where you really want to live. Also, be open minded about working in a field unrelated to your major.

Many graduates find themselves working and loving jobs they had never previously considered. The entire world is open to you right now, and it may be the only time this will happen.

Don't panic and think that all the good jobs are flying past you while you're preparing for graduation. Believe in yourself. The best is yet to come.

So gather your things, cherished memories and college debt included, and explore the world, scary as that may seem.

H.Y.P.E. brings Christians together

Do you enjoy serving the Lord, meeting new people, and having fun? Well, if you do I know a ministry that is composed of all of the previous statements and much more. This ministry is entitled H.Y.P.E. Holy (Young People Empowered).

H.Y.P.E. is the mobile link of the 2 Timothy college ministry of Oak Grove Missionary Baptist Church where Rev. Alvin J. Summers serves as Pastor.

H.Y.P.E. is a ministry open to any college and young adult person. It was established Fall 2003 by Pastor Alvin J. Summers and UTM student Minister Candice L. Lampkin. H.Y.P.E. includes the sub-ministries of Drama, Pantomime Dance, Choir, Poetry, Step, Rap, and Media. Also, H.Y.P.E. meets every Tuesday night at 7 p.m. at the Baptist Student Center to have bible study and every Sunday morning at 9:30 a.m. at Oak Grove Baptist Church to have Sunday school.

The ministry partakes in community service, mentoring junior high & high school students, and social activities. Our purpose is to serve as an atmosphere that is fun, uplifting, life impacting, lively, and especially where students are not ashamed to lift up the name of Jesus Christ in a unique way. The mission of H.Y.P.E. is to introduce college students to Jesus Christ and to nurture a relationship with Him through a study of scriptures that will empower them to live by the direction of the Holy Spirit.

One of the best ways we can reach the UTM campus and the entire Martin community is through the semester series of HYPE NITE. The 2004-2005 H.Y.P.E. theme: "A P.H.A.T. Purpose" (Praising Him Abundantly in Time & Talents). HYPE NITE IV is a staged dramatic/comedy production of college students struggling to find their purpose in life incorporating Dance, Step, Song, Poetry, and Rap!!!!

Our up coming event is the H.Y.P.E. Weekend Explosion which includes:

- HYPE NITE IV Friday, April 29th at 7p.m. at Southside Baptist Church
- P.H.A.T. Praise Rally Sunday, May 1st at 5p.m. in the Watkins Auditorium

Coffey authors fourth book on war history

Tiffany Trice
Staff Writer

Coffey

Dr. David Coffey, interim chair of the Department of History and Philosophy has written and published his fourth book, Sheridan's Lieutenants: Phil Sheridan, His Generals, and the Final Year of the Civil War. This book was released earlier this month which tells the role of Union General Phillip Sheridan and the men under him during the last year of the Civil War and how he shaped the military after this war.

Coffey is no stranger to the book publishing world, his other three books include: John Bell Hood and the Struggle for Atlanta (1998), Soldier Princess: The Life and Legend of Agnes Salm-Salm in North America, 1861-1867 (2002) and The Encyclopedia of the Vietnam War and the Encyclopedia of American Military History, in which he contributed eight historical reference works and is the associate editor of these three volume projects.

Additionally, this Ft., Worth, Tx. native has chapters published in critically-acclaimed anthologies of Civil War and Mexican history.

"I love writing. I've been fortunate enough to have numerous opportunities to write and publish books and it's a great way to bring attention to the university, especially to the Department of History and Philosophy," said Coffey.

Dr. Coffey holds a Ph.D. from Texas Christian University. He is currently interim chair of the Department of History and Philosophy here at UTM, where he offers classes in U.S. military, Civil War, and Latin American history.

Pageant, gala headline AKA Week celebrations

Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority's Zeta Lambda Chapter held their annual Miss Essence Pageant on April 11, in the Watkins auditorium. This elegant and entertaining event displayed some of the most distinguished young ladies on this campus. The participants were Samantha Hunt, Erin Chambers, KomTeria Herndon, Ebony Holmes, Rukiya Campbell, Carmen Echols, LaDonna Braswell, Carmen Henderson, Terika Taylor, Delvestia Bond and T'Challa Pollard. The contestants ranged from sophomores to seniors and all performed exciting talents. The lovely ladies also modeled the latest trends in fashion and beauty. The contestants were all very sophisticated, poised and extremely confident. Lakesha Garner, a freshman biology major said, "They all did so well. I know the judges had a hard time deciding who would win." T'Challa Pollard and Rukiya Campbell both gave interesting performances that made you want to laugh and cry at the same time. Delvestia's tribute to single mothers was also a high point in the night. However, KomTeria Herndon's lively drum patterns stole the show and ultimately won her the title of Miss Essence 2005. Delvestia Bond was first runner up, Carmen Echols second runner up, and Samantha Hunt was named Miss Congeniality. The ladies of Alpha Kappa Alpha hosted some other exciting events. April 12 they brought back their own rendition of the popular show the dating game which was a big hit. The following day was huge basketball game between the AKA's and the women of Delta Sigma Theta. The men of Omega Psi Phi and Kappa Alpha Psi duked it out on the court. The AKA's and the Kappas were victorious. This fun filled week wrapped up with a semi-formal gala on Friday, and a huge party at Club Chaos Saturday and church services at Oak Grove M.B.C. on Sunday.

'Toughest of the Tough' to test students' endurance

Press Release

Crews receives grant for computer, travel study

Heather Roland
Staff Writer

Dr. Lionel Crews, UTM Assistant Professor of Physics, recently received a $3,500 research grant from the American Astronomical Society.

After some deliberation, Crews has decided to focus the money in two areas. Crews will purchase a laptop computer, costing $1,500, to be used to take and analyze astronomical data faster.

The remaining $2,000 will be used for travel expenses to astronomical observatories from various places around the world.

Currently, Crews has put proposals in at four different observatories. Two of the observatories are in Chile, and the remaining two are in Hawaii and Arizona.

At these renowned observatories, Crews will continue a project he is doing with Dr. Tracy Huard, a post-doctoral fellow at the Harvard-Smithsonian Center for Astrophysics. The project consists of studying the beginning stages of star and planet formation.

Crews will use special infrared telescopes to probe the structure of a star and measure the effects of stars caused by dust.

"It's a cutting-edge research project," Crews said. "It's a very important topic in astronomy today."

In studying the beginning stages of star and planet formation, Crews said greater knowledge can be inferred about the universe and how it develops and works.

In the past Crews has been able to take UTM students to astronomical observatories and national conventions. Crews added that if anyone wishes to participate in astronomy projects of this nature in the future to contact him.

All-Sing benefits Jones, features Motown hits

SigEp, Chi O win top honors

Tiffany Trice
Staff Writer

The 44th annual Alpha Phi Omega All-Sing was held April 9 at 7 p.m. and featured many performances.

Chi Omega took first in the sorority division, while Sigma Phi Epsilon took first in the fraternity division and won "judges' favorite," which has traditionally been called "best of show."

All-Sing started out as Zeta Tau Alpha, wearing turquoise empire waist 50s style dresses, took the audience on a journey of heartbreak to love.

Then Alpha Delta Pi, wore red shirts with the All-Sing theme, really brought energy to the stage with hits such as "I Say a Little Prayer for You" and "I Will Survive."

Sigma Phi Epsilon really took the audience back with songs from artists such as the Temptations and Stevie Wonder.

Alpha Omicron Pi members with their glamorous, royal purple sequin tops and Chi Omega concluded the event with two show stopping performances.

Each fraternity and sorority sang six or more Motown hits.

Chi Omega won first place in the sorority division with Motown hits such as "Reach Out, I'll Be There" and "(Your Love Has Lifted Me) Higher and Higher."

Alpha Omicron Pi won second place in the sorority division with chart-toppers such as "Just My Imagination" and "Midnight Train to Georgia."

The night wasn't just about competition though, the sororities and fraternities had a greater cause. All the proceeds from this event went to benefit Johnny Jones, a 1980 UTM graduate and former editor of The Fulton Leader.

Jones suffered a brain aneurysm in the fall of 2004, which required intensive therapy sessions to help him function at a normal level. Jones is doing well in his recovery, and he and his family were present at All-Sing to accept a $3,000 check that will help him receive six more months of the therapy he needs.

Jones and his wife said a few words in appreciation for the hard work and efforts of all of the participating fraternities and sororities.

"I enjoyed it a lot. The whole purpose of tonight was very commendable that the fraternities, sororities, alumni and the Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity decided to serve," said John Carlton, a UTM student.

The night was full of performances and presentations.

Allen "Joey" Croom of Martin, a UTM student received the Beth Maloan Student Employee of the Year Award. Croom was presented a $150 check and a plaque on his very commendable student worker ethics in the College of Business and Public Affairs. Also a local rock band, "Seventh Divine" performed some of their songs while the judges tallied up the results.

Alpha Phi Omega is a national, co-educational service fraternity that sets the standard for campus based volunteerism. Since the fraternity's founding on December 16, 1925, more than 17,000 students at approximately 350 colleges and universities have been members of the organization.

Student Government inaugurates new leaders

Stephanie Ryan
Staff Writer

Members of UTM's winning political party, Effective Connections, as well as senators, were sworn into office during the Student Government Association's inauguration Thursday.

The event, which took place in the UC, brought the newly-elected officers together to promise to "support and defend the needs, concerns and general welfare of the student body" of UTM, according to the oath.

Liz Craig, outgoing Vice President, opened the meeting by thanking outgoing members of the organization and congratulating the winners of the elections, noting that the inauguration is a "very momentous event."

After the brief swearing-in of the senators, the newly-elected Vice President, Rachel Hammond, and Secretary General Rachel Mansfield, also newly elected, each thanked SGA members and expressed excitement about the coming year.

President James Orr motivated the new officers to fight for the student body of UTM while stressing the importance of positive changes around campus.

"Last year's EC [Executive Council] laid a great foundation. Make no mistake about it, we're gonna fight for the students, reinforce things that are positive for our campus and come together as a team to be proactive and serve students first." Orr said.

Orr plans to lead a more student-oriented SGA next year by forming an advisory council to meet with various organizations and find out how they can help, as well as being highly involved with activities such as Freshman Week and Diversity Week.

The most important thing, he said, is allowing every student to have a voice and influence in what goes on around campus.

"While I know being SGA president will be very time-consuming, I know it will be well worth it," Orr said.

The last SGA meeting of the year will be April 28 in the legislative chambers.

The Pacer's staff writer meetings will be held at 5:15 p.m. Tuesdays in 316 Gooch.

IFC Recruitment Officer arrested on alcohol, disorderly conduct charges

Kevin Teets
Senior Reporter

Interfraternity Council (IFC) Recruitment Officer, Brandon Niblock, was arrested Saturday night on charges of disorderly conduct and public intoxication.

According to the Martin Police Department, Officer Nicholas Glenn was at the National Guard Armory and first approached Niblock in reference to being in violation of the open container law. Glenn also concluded that Niblock was intoxicated to a point that would not be safe for him to be left on his own. The police report states that Niblock admitted freely to being in such a condition.

The report further states that Niblock then became verbally abusive with Officer Glenn by raising his voice to a level that was disruptive to the people that were obeying the law at the armory. Niblock was then arrested on charges of disorderly conduct and public intoxication. He was jailed at the Weakley County Detention Center and later posted a bond amount of $1,000.

According to the IFC by-laws, Niblock's responsibilities as the recruitment officer for IFC includes the execution of recruitment events each semester for IFC and presiding over meetings with the recruitment committee. In addition to being an IFC officer, Niblock is also the Vice President of his fraternity, Kappa Alpha Order.

The Pacer asked Greek Life Coordinator, Louis Ragsdale, whether Niblock would be removed from the position of IFC recruitment officer. Ragsdale gave no indication as to how the matter would be handled, saying that this was the first time he had heard of Niblock being arrested and that public intoxication charges were usually handled by the Office of Student Affairs.

IFC President Tony Beal told The Pacer that they were not releasing any information until they had more details. "At this moment we are investigating the situation. We have no further comment until all facts can be brought in front of the IFC Executive Council," Beal said.

The Pacer has also learned that Kappa Alpha Order had rented out the armory for a party the same night that Niblock was arrested.

Niblock was arraigned in Weakley County General Sessions Court on Monday and has a preliminary hearing set on May 18.

Two arrested after AKA pool party

Will York
Asst. News Editor

Two males were arrested last Thursday after causing a disturbance at the Elam Center after the Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority pool party.

When police arrived on the scene at 11:05 p.m., they found a group of males yelling and threatening a fight with another group.

After officers told the group to disperse, Adam Savage, 23, continued to yell and attempted to start a confrontation.

Officers said Savage had an odor similar to alcohol emanating from his person.

Savage refused to give officers his identification six times and then began screaming obscenities at officers.

Officers then tried to handcuff Savage, but he fought back as he continued to shout obscenities at officers. Police tried to use chemical spray against Savage, but the canister was knocked from the officer's hands during the struggle. After further struggle, officers subdued Savage. Even after police handcuffed Savage, he continued to resist as he was being placed in a UTM Police patrol car.

An officer was injured during the scuffle but was treated and released from the Volunteer Community Hospital.

Savage was charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

Also during the incident, Marcus Martin, 21, of Martin, refused to leave the scene after being asked to leave six times.

Martin was arrested at the scene for disorderly conduct.

According to Public Safety, during a routine search of Martin's person, officers found a plastic bag containing a "green, leafy plant-like material believed to be marijuana" in his right front pants pocket.

Martin was permanently banned from the UTM campus on April 2, 2001.

Martin was charged with disorderly conduct, simple possession of a Schedule VI controlled substance and criminal trespassing.

Savage and Martin were both referred to Weakley County General Sessions Court.

'Senior Walk' comes to UTM graduation

Amy Eddings
Sports Editor

UTM is starting a new tradition for graduating seniors this semester. The first ever "UTM Grand Finale Celebration and Senior Walk" will be held on May 4, 2005.

The celebration will start at noon with a picnic luncheon in the quad which is to be followed by the "Senior Walk." According to Chancellor Nick Dunagan, the walk is a chance for graduates to have a time of reflection as they take one of their last strolls around campus. All students and faculty members are invited to come watch and use noisemakers, signs and other non-destructive items to say goodbye. The alma mater will be played and the walkway will be lined with blue, orange and white flags to mark the path.

"The grand finale is a picnic lunch free for all the graduating seniors (spring and summer)," said Charlie Deal, director of alumni relations. "The walk will start at 1:30 and any and everybody is invited to join as we form a solid passage way from the picnic area to the Elam Center at 2 p.m. The picnic area is going to be behind Crisp Hall and we will line the walk down in front of Brehem Hall and shoot across to the Elam center from there. There will be a live web cast at www.utmforever.com so family and friends can watch."

During the picnic, graduates will be eligible to win several door prizes; the most coveted being the seven day, six night vacation to one of 1,500 resort locations. Possible destinations can be found at www.alumnitravelbenefits.com The other two large prizes being given away are a 2005 class ring from Balfour and a diploma frame, both worth over $100.

"I'm mainly going because practice is right afterwards," said Isaac Sorrell, a communications major from Ripley, "but it is a good chance for everyone to be together one last time."

Chris Burgin, a May 2004 graduate wishes that something like the celebration had been in place when he graduated.

"Honestly, it was instantaneous. As soon as graduation was over, it was done," said Burgin. "You're there and then bam, you're done. It would have been nice to have a farewell event. It sounds like a great way to see everyone together and be with the friends you went through college with."

Planning that summer vacation after finals are over? Why leave the state when Tennessee has so much to offer residents and visitors alike? Yes, Tennessee has something for everyone: from white water rafting to theme and amusement parks, museums, historical sites and some of the best state and national parks in the country. Below are just a few sites you may want to put on your list of places to go this summer.

Among the best Tennessee amusement and theme parks is Dollywood, located in Pigeon Forge, Tenn., offering live music, rides and crafts and is one of the top 50 most visited theme parks in the country today.

Libertyland Amusement Park, located in Memphis, Tenn., has over 20 high speed thrill rides, a gaming area and offers carnival-style food at restaurants and stands located throughout the park. Libertyland is also host to Spirit!, a musical celebration of our unity as a nation and of our diverse population.

Ober Gatlinburg Ski Resort and Amusement Park, located in Gatlinburg, Tenn., is a mountaintop ski resort theme park with fun, excitement and great shopping for everyone.

Splash Country Water Adventure Park, located in Pigeon Forge, Tenn. contains white water adventures, water falls, winding streams and many rides from "wild to mild."

Tennessee natural and educational attractions include Adventure Science Center, located in Nashville, Tenn., featuring exhibits depicting Hollywood's horror movies, where monsters convey the power of the atom, learn about light from the Prince of Darkness, energy from the Wolf Man, conservation from the Mummy and electricity from Frankenstein.

A Walk in the Woods, located in Gatlinburg, Tenn., features guided trips through the Smoky Mountains

National Park, designed to make your stay as enjoyable as possible while teaching natural history.

Rock City, located in Chattanooga, Tenn., high on the top of Lookout Mountain, offers the world-famous Lover's Leap, 140-foot high falls and over 400 species of flowers, plants and shrubs. Enjoy being one with nature while walking through splendid gardens and woodland paths.

Ruby Falls, located in Chattanooga, Tenn., is one of the nation's natural wonders and one of Chattanooga's most famous attractions. Ruby Falls is a 145-foot high waterfall located inside historic Lookout Mountain and also features caves and caverns.

The Lost Sea, located in Sweetwater, Tenn., is the world's largest underground lake and is part of an extensive cave system known as Craighead Caverns.

Tennessee also offers many historical musical entertainment sites which include the world-famous Beale Street, located in Memphis, Tenn. and is the home of Blues and the birthplace of rock 'n' roll and offers a carnival atmosphere with great food and fun for all.

The Country Music Hall of Fame, located in Nashville, Tennessee's Music Row, is a $37 million structure exhibiting the best performers in country music.

The Dixie Stampede, located in Pigeon Forge, Tenn., features 32 horses and dozens of cast members in a 35,000 square-foot arena, proving to be one of Tennessee's finest sites in down home entertainment. Dolly Parton created the Dixie Stampede in hope of recreating the family fun of her childhood when family and friends gathered for friendly competitions and to enjoy great food.

Graceland, located in Memphis, Tenn., is the world-famous home of Elvis Presley, features little-known facts about the entertainer, photos, exhibits and many of Presley's gold and platinum albums and performance costumes.

the best in country music entertainment, comedy and pageantry with a connection between artists and audience like no other in the world.

The Nashville Symphony, located in Nashville, Tenn., features more than 200 performances annually in Classical, Pops, Pied Piper and Summer series concerts and has long since been considered on of Tennessee's "cornerstone of performing arts."

Tennessee also offers many National and State Parks including the Great Smoky Mountains National Park. Located in Gatlinburg, Tenn., it is the largest national park in the East, featuring over one-half million acres, auto tours of the park and over 270 miles of scenic Smokey Mountain roads.

Fort Donelson National Battlefield, located in Dover, Tenn., features Fort Donelson National Cemetery, the final resting place of many Union soldiers skilled in the Civil War and many other American veterans representing over seven wars. Fort Donelson and the Dover Hotel, where Confederate General Simon B. Buckner surrendered to Ulysses S. Grant, can also be found there.

Tennessee also offers many locations for whitewater rafting including the Appalachian Outdoors Whitewater Rafting, located in Hartford, Tenn., where visitors can raft the Upper Pigeon River, some of the best white water in Tennessee. The longest trip on the river is 6.4 miles of white water fun, containing classes of II through IV level rapids. However, for the more conservative rafter, the park also offers a four mile trip on the Lower Pigeon River with class I and II level rapids.

Rafting in the Smokies, located in Gatlinburg, Hartford and Benton, Tenn., offers many whitewater rafting trips while monitoring and keeping in contact between the Big Pigeon, Ocoee and Nantahala River Outposts, creating a safe whitewater rafting experience.

Another whitewater rafting company is 5 Rivers Adventures-Whitewater Rafting, located in Cosby, Tenn.. It is family owned and operated in the heart of the Smoky Mountains along the Pigeon River and is the closest whitewater rafting adventure to Gatlinburg and Pigeon Forge.

So whether you like entertainment and adventure parks, music or whitewater rafting, Tennessee has something to offer for everyone.

Sigma Tau Delta and the UTM English Society hosted Angels in America reading for AIDS awareness

Sara Beaver
Staff Writer

Sigma Tau Delta took the stage Tues., April 12, when UTM's English Honors' Society hosted a free live, dramatic reading of Tony Kushner's 1993 Pulitzer Prize-winning play Angels in America: A Gay Fantasia on National Themes.

Five readers undertook specified selections from Part I: Millennium Approaches, the first component of the two-part drama, in the Humanities Auditorium as part of Allies Week here on campus.

Dr. Leslie LaChance articulated in her introduction to the reading that Kushner's work is unique and significant in that it courses its action through several diverse, worldly themes well enough to make a significant impact on the American society out of which it was fashioned. LaChance said that Kushner fashions these diverse themes together with eloquent language to produce one of the most influential plays in recent play production.

One AIDS sufferer, a power broker and an agoraphobic valium addict comprise major characters within the play, posing as delegates of their individual obstructions, as displayed by Kushner as some of the foremost conflicts in present day society.

Relationships between these characters and others progress as supernatural elements and societal barriers continue to enter, interrupt and pose questioning in the brutal reality of their lives.

The overall selected scenes portray several conflicted characters dealing with issues relevant to today's society. Religion, homosexuality, discrimination, disease, life vs. death and the afterlife are few of the themes Kushner puts forth with the drama.

Students, faculty, and the UTM community experienced a scholarly performance by readers Phillip Gordon, Tonya Parham, Tammy Prater, Brian Stiles and Alison Caldwell.

"Hearing the dramatic reading of the play make me want to go out and either finish reading the play and/or watch the film version. Overall, the participants did a great job with the reading," said senior Biology/Nursing major Sona Patel.

Sigma Tau Delta members expressed their enthusiasm for the play and reflected on the good audience turnout for the event.

"Sigma Tau Delta has been wanting to stage a dramatic reading and decided to do this live reading after hearing expression of enthusiasm in the play from other students. Angels in America is a positive reflection of national themes," said Brian Stiles, a senior English major and Sigma Tau Delta member.

Expanding on Brian's comment, Tonya Parham, a senior English/History major, Sigma Tau Delta member and another reader said, "The play expresses relevant issues with national themes."

The society's faculty sponsor Allison Caldwell said, "The reading is a good way to raise awareness about Sigma Tau Delta on this campus and an opportunity for the society to become active by giving something to the UTM community."

The presentation is also part of Allies week. Sigma Tau Delta wishes to produce more events like this one and become more active in the fall.

Eckford, Jackson give winning performance at junior recital

Erica Jacobs
Staff Writer

The junior recital performed by Jason B. Eckford, euphonium and Lantonio Jackson, tuba, was held Sun., April 17, 2005, in the Harriett Fulton Theatre.

The recital started off with Eckford playing "Rhapsody for Euphonium." Linda Farmer, who played the piano throughout the recital, accompanied Eckford and Jackson.

Jason Eckford is from Jackson, Tenn. and has been playing the euphonium since the sixth grade. "My instructor picked these pieces and I have been working on them since the beginning of the semester," said Eckford.

Upon graduating from UT Martin with a bachelor's in Music Education, Eckford plans to attend graduate school.

Lantonio Jackson, a Music Education major, is also from Jackson, Tenn. He has been playing the tuba for the past seven years. "I want to be a high school band director after I graduate," said

Jackson.

The recital entailed a mixture of pieces. From a sweet, lulling tune to a loud and boisterous piece of music, captivating the audiences' attention. The last two pieces of the recital, Dance and Benediction, were played by a quartet. Kevin Ward, euphonium and Tony Ison, tuba, joined Eckford and Jackson to end the concert with a grand finale.

"I loved it," said Jenny Cooper, an instrumental music major. "I know all four of the guys that performed today and they did a great job. There were some really hard pieces and they performed it well."

It's the end of the Civil War. The last Southern ironclad is being loaded with boxes owned by the Confederacy to make one last, heroic run through a Union blockade. As bombs explode around the massive ship, it sails into the night and the stage is set for one of the most exciting adventures of the year.

Cut to modern day Egypt. A group of scientists and doctors from the World Health Organization are investigating what they believe to be a plague. Dr. Eva Rojas, played by Penelope Cruz, is determined to discover the cause of this strange sickness and begins to investigate. In doing so, she attracts the attention of some very unsavory characters and is attacked while at a lighthouse on the beach.

Enter Dirk Pitt, played by Matthew McConaughey. While out on the water, he sees the attack and saves Eva. When Eva awakes, she finds herself on a boat filled with men and equipment and she can't find her savior. At least not until a crane has lifted something from the water. It happens to be a sarcophagus of an ancient Egyptian pharaoh. Standing on top is the man who saved her life.

Dirk, along with his sidekick Al Gordinio, played by Steve Zahn, are part of an organization known as NUMA, which is short for the National Underwater and Marine Agency, which is made up of a group of treasure hunters who spend their time salvaging shipwrecks for ancient treasures. They are backed by museums and private collectors. The organization is headed by Admiral James Sandrecker, played by William H. Macy.

While in Lagos, Dirk finds an ancient gold coin that happens to be a piece of Confederate gold, one of only five samples ever made by Jefferson Davis in the days of the Confederate States of America. When asked why the coin is so special, Dirk tells of his obsession with an old ironclad that supposedly is buried in the Sahara desert. Since the coin was found in that region, he asks for permission to go and search for it. After much debate, Sandrecker finally agrees to let Pitt, Gordinio and their friend Rudi Gunn take his boat and gives them 72 hours to find this legendary ironclad.

Meanwhile, Rojas and her partner Dr. Frank Hopper have discovered that the source of the disease is somewhere in Mali, a country torn apart by civil war and ruled by a ruthless warlord. They finally get permission to enter the country, but they soon realize that it could be a mistake that will cost their lives.

Soon, Rojas and Pitt find themselves thrown together as they fight the evil General Kazim and attempt to find both the source of the myste-

Learn more about yourself and The 10 Women You Will be Before You are 35

Rachel Rogers
Assistant A & E Editor

What kind of woman are you? Are you the New Graduate, out in the real world for the first time? Or maybe you're a Chameleon, trying everything possible to make that new boyfriend love you even more? If you're not sure, but would like to find out, then check out Alison James's The 10 Women You'll Be Before You're 35.

In her second book dealing with relationships, James lists ten different phases that a woman will more than likely go through before she turns 35: the New Graduate, the Dollarless Diva, the Worker Bee, the Party Girl, the Body-Conscious Babe, the Chameleon, the Crisis Chick, Ms. Independence, Whirl (half woman/half girl) and True You. She also goes into detail about what characterizes each phase, how you can overcome any obstacles, tips on making it the best possible and advice from real life people.

This book is a hilarious read and it makes you look at yourself. As you read through each section, you find things that you did while in that phase and laugh at the fond memories you have of it, or you read something that may signal to you that you're going through a phase now that you weren't aware of. For example, characteristics of a Chameleon is that, after the girl begins a new relationship, she may hate rap music, but she'll listen to it all day because it's her beau's favorite music. Or a Worker Bee may come in to work, even though she feels like she's dying, simply because she's afraid of taking time off.

While the book is not strictly relationship oriented, you will find a lot of useful tips about men. Such as, in the Party Girl section, you'll discover that you can learn a lot about a man simply by what drinks. Or, in the Chameleon phase, you can learn if a guy is too demanding of you and if you should ditch him for good.

The book attempts to help you make it through each of the phases until you reach the most important one of all, the True You. It teaches you that there is an end in sight and that you don't have to go on being the Dollarless Diva forever. Or that you don't have to work every day of the week without breaks. It also teaches you to look back and fondly recall the memories of your time in each phase.

I would definitely recommend this book, especially if you are a New Graduate. Who knows? You may even learn a few things about yourself!

Skyhawk women win OVC Championship

Tennis wins first Ohio Valley title since '95, first school conference championship since '02

Joe Lofaro
Sports Information Director

Skyhawk tennis coach Dennis Taylor said his women's team went on a mission a year ago and it ended today with the O'Reilly Ohio Valley Conference Tennis Tournament Championship at Centennial Sportsplex in Nashville.

The Skyhawks, seeded No. 1 in the tournament with an unblemished 9-0 regular season record, claimed a 4-3 victory over their biggest conference rival No. 2 seeded Murray State.

The OVC championship is the third for Taylor and Tennessee-Martin's women. The Skyhawks claimed OVC titles in 1994 and 1995.

The championship came down to the No. 5 singles match where Skyhawk junior Jeanne de Wet defeated Murray State's Casady Pruitt 3-6, 6-4, 7-5.

"It was rough," de Wet said. "I did what I had to do."

De Wet lost the first set, but came back to win the second set 6-4.

"I realized toward the end of the second set that this was it," she said. "This was the championship and it was up to me."

De Wet jumped out to a 4-0 lead in the third set, but Pruitt battled back to tie the set at 4-4. De Wet took the lead again at 5-4, but once again Pruitt knotted it at 5-5. Finally, de Wet went up 6-5 and won the set, match and championship on the serve.

"It turned out all right," de Wet said.

Things also turned out all right for the Skyhawks in doubles.

Senior Sari Nortje and Katrina Domela defeated Jackelyn Leeper and Anna Lask 8-4 in the No. 2 doubles match, while Gayatri Ramesh and de Wet won 8-2 in the No. 3 doubles match.

The two victories gave the Skyhawks a one-point lead going into the singles action.

Nortje suffered her first loss of the season at No. 1 singles. Murray State's Anna Lask beat the OVC's Player of the Year 6-1, 6-3.

"The girl (Lask) was so psyched up," Nortje said. "Every time she won a point, you though she won the match. It was very intense, but winning the championship feels better than last year."

Nortje's reference to last year's heart-breaking loss in the championship to Samford served as the motivation for this year's Skyhawk success. The loss also marked the beginning of the mission.

"Our girls deserve this," Taylor said. "It was a tough fight all year and it goes back to last year."

While the championship hinged on the outcome of de Wet's match, Taylor said the undefeated conference run and the tournament title were the results of the entire team.

"It took everybody from the trainer on up for us to win."

Murray State also claimed a win at No. 2 and No. 4 singles. At No. 3 singles, senior Elly Shearman defeated Murray State's Jennifer Ward 6-2, 6-4 and at No. 6 singles, freshman Elizma Schoonees defeated Murray State's Christina Hall 6-2, 6-3.

Along with the tournament championship and the automatic berth in the NCAA regional next month, the Skyhawks placed three players, Nortje, Domela and Schoonees, on the All-OVC first

"The award came as a complete surprise," Nortje said. "It hasn't sunk in yet."

Men finish third, women fourth in UTM rodeo, lead Ozark region

MATT MAXEY / The Pacer

A UTM cowboy hangs on during the saddle bronc competition at last weekend's UTM rodeo. The men finished third and the women finished fourth overall.

UTM Sports Information

The University of Tennessee at Martin rodeo team got a wake-up call this past weekend in the Ned McWherter Agricultural Complex and it came just in time according to head coach John Luthi.

The Skyhawk men's team finished third in the team standings with 250 points this past weekend in its home rodeo.

Arkansas-Monticello claimed the top team honors with 270 points, while West Alabama was second with 255 points.

Although the third-place finish won't hurt UTM in the Ozark Region standings, Luthi said the team needs to make some improvements with two rodeos remaining this year if it wants to win the region again and claim an automatic berth in the College National Finals Rodeo set for June in Casper, Wyo.

"We made some mental mistakes in the short round and we had a few problems in the long go," Luthi said. "I don't want to make excuses, but we just didn't compete up to par."

UTM's Scotty NeSmith won the bareback average, while his teammate Whit Ashe was second in the average. UTM's Russ Ratkowski finished fourth in the average.

UTM picked up some points in the saddle bronc, when Jason Forsythe turned in a 76-point ride in the second go.

Ashe claimed second in the average with 144 points on two.

In the steer wrestling, UTM's Boyd Quinley finished third in the average, while Ty Atchison was fourth in the short go and average.

Curtis Griffin finished second in the bull riding average with an 82-point ride.

On the women's side, UTM finished fourth with 55 points.

Kelly Miller finished second in the goat tying long go with a time of 7.8.

Miller was fourth in the short go with a time of 8.9 and third in the average with 16.7 on two.

The UTM rodeo team returns to action Thursday-Saturday, April 21-23 when it travels to Mississippi State University.

While Luthi was not overly excited about the third-place finish, he was pleased with the crowd each night at the UTM rodeo.

"We had great crowds and we hope everyone enjoyed the rodeo."

Baseball drops series, wins one against OVC foe Tennessee Tech over weekend

UTM Sports Information

The Skyhawks (8-24/3-8 OVC) defeated host Tennessee Tech (8-27/3-8 OVC) 3-2 in the second game of a three-game Ohio Valley Conference series this weekend.

However, the Skyhawks came up short in the series as Tech claimed the first game 5-2 and the third game 8-0.

Justin Bryant earned his third win of the season by pitching six innings in the 3-2 victory Saturday.

Bryant scattered nine hits and gave up two earned runs. The junior right-hander is 3-4 on the season.

Junior Brett Spivy went two-for-three at the plate with a home run. Zane Gresback, a junior college transfer, went one-for-two at the plate with two runs scored.

Nick Luper went two-for-two in the game.

The Skyhawks scored a run in the third to tie the game at 1-1 and then scored again in the fifth to tie the game at 2-2. Spivy's home run in the sixth was the game-winner.

Tech won the opening game of the series 5-2 with a four-run eighth inning. Spivy collected two of the Skyhawks' seven hits in the game.

Tech claimed the series with an 8-0 shutout in game three.

The Skyhawks managed four hits and committed three errors. Gresback, the designated hitter, had two of the Skyhawks' four hits in the game.

The Skyhawks return to action at 3 p.m., Tuesday, April 19 when they host Southern Illinois at Skyhawk Field.

The Skyhawks will return to OVC action this weekend, April 23 and 24 when they host Austin Peay in a three-game series.

Action gets under way at 1 p.m. Saturday, April 23 with a doubleheader.

Softball loses first OVC series of 2005 season to Eastern Kentucky

Sports Information

The Skyhawk (26-12/10-5 OVC) softball team salvaged a win in a three-game Ohio Valley Conference series this weekend at Eastern Kentucky (14-20/ 6-9 OVC).

After dropping both games in Saturday's doubleheader, the Skyhawks earned a 7-2 victory Sunday afternoon.

The Skyhawks piled up 12 hits in the 7-2 win and senior Nicole Davis claimed her 12th win of the season.

Davis pitched all seven innings and scattered seven hits and five walks. She struck out four and gave up two earned runs.

"We finally started hitting the ball all over the place today," said Donley Canary, the Skyhawks' fourth-year head coach.

Senior Kristin Runyan led the effort with two doubles and an RBI. Runyan went three-for-four at the plate.

Megan Mizell, Kristin Hogan and Christa Webb had two hits each.

Webb hit her second home run of the week and drove in four runs in the game.

Eastern Kentucky swept Saturday's doubleheader, winning the first game 3-0 and claiming the sweep with a 7-4 win in the second game.

In the second game, ECU roughed up Skyhawk pitcher Megan Mizell in one and one-third innings of work.

Mizell was tagged for five hits and six earned runs. She faced 10 hitters.

The Skyhawks managed nine hits in the game but failed to take advantage of four ECU errors.

Brandy Whalen, Runyan, and Fallon Lowery had two hits each for the Skyhawks.

The Skyhawks return to action Tuesday afternoon, April 19 when they travel to Saint Louis for a non-conference doubleheader.

The Skyhawks will return to OVC action Thursday, April 21 when they host Austin Peay in a doubleheader at Bettye Giles Field. The first game is set for 2 p.m.

They will then face Jacksonville State for a three game series on Sat. and Sun.

Skyhawk of the Week

Amy Eddings
Sports Editor

The Skyhawk women's tennis team has been named "Skyhawk of the Week" for the week of April 19-25. The team picked up the O'Reilly's OVC women's tennis championship over the weekend in Nashville.

The team went undefeated during the regular season, clinching the No. 1 seed going into the tournament.

They defeated Jacksonville State in the first round 4-0 of the tournament and then faced No. 2 seed Murray state in the second round.

They defeated the Lady Racers 4-3 on Sunday to clinch the title.

and Schoonees, on the All-OVC first team.

Shearman was named to the all-conference's second team and Taylor was named the Coach of the Year.

Nortje was named the OVC's Player of the Year.

The championship gives the Skyhawk's a place in the NCAA regionals next month.

of the tournament has not been set as of right now, but the Skyhawks could possibly have the most home court advantage as one of the speculated sites is Vanderbilt University.

The women's tennis team's conference championship victory marked the first time that the team has won a conference championship since they won them back to back in 1994-1995 under Coach Taylor.

This championship is also the first conference tournament title that UTM has won since the volleyball team won the regular season in 2001 and the conference tournament in 2002.

Skyhawk football spring game set for Thursday night

Amy Eddings
Sports Editor

The Skyhawk football team wraps up spring practice this Thursday night with the annual spring game at 7 p.m. at Graham Stadium.

Everyone is invited to come and get a first look at the 2005 squad.

The scrimmage will have a different point system than that of normal games. For example, when the offense scores a touchdown, it will still be worth the standard six points. However, if the defense makes it into the end zone, the TD will be worth 10 points.

MATT MAXEY / The Pacer

Points will also be given out for other accomplishments on the field such as first downs, interceptions, fumble recoveries, etc., etc.

Cornerback Jack Greenwood lunges after running back Donald Chapman during Saturday morning's scrimmage.

Sodexho will also be putting on the "Gridiron Grill-out" from 4:30 p.m. until game time. The cafeteria will be closed but all students are invited to attend and use their meal plans for the pre-game picnic.
